

The University of California, Davis, School of Medicine, Division of Pulmonary, Critical Care, and Sleep Medicine, is recruiting for one full-time academic position at the Assistant/Associate Professor level in the Adjunct series. Appointees to the Adjunct series are required to engage in research, teaching, and University and public service. The candidate's focus will include both the clinical and research aspects of adult internal medicine, relating to critical care and healthcare quality and safety. The candidate will work directly with departmental leadership to develop a robust quality and safety program within Internal Medicine.

Candidates must have MD degree or a PhD degree in addition to an unrestricted RN license in the state of California, with advanced degrees and certifications in nursing and health care leadership (e.g. MSN and/or MBA with NEA-BC). Doctoral degree program must have included advanced quantitative epidemiology (research PhD or MD with T32 or higher research training track). Candidate must demonstrate active knowledge of epidemiology and advanced statistics including the use of SAS, SPSS, R, and/or Stata. IRB and REDCap experience is required. Expertise in the use of an electronic health record for research and case analysis purposes is a must. Candidates will have to demonstrate a track record of grant funding and oversight, quality and safety publications, and medical committee involvement (chair and participating). The candidate must have prior academic experience in working with diverse academic departments in collaborating with research and quality analysis and must have experience in teaching quality and safety at the nurse and medical student level or above. The knowledge of medical legal consulting and risk management case analysis, Lean for Healthcare, and Six Sigma training (Green belt or above), and active nursing or medical professional society participation is preferred. Prior experience mentoring masters and doctorate level students, along with residents is preferred.

For full consideration, applications must be received by December 15, 2017, however, this position will remain opened until filled but no later than June 30, 2018. Qualified applicants should upload their curriculum vita, cover letter, statement of contributions to diversity and the names and contact information for five professional references online at: <https://recruit.ucdavis.edu/apply/JPF01955>

This recruitment is conducted at the Assistant/Associate rank. The selected candidate will be hired at the Assistant/Associate rank, regardless of the proposed appointee's qualifications.

UC Davis commits to inclusion excellence by advancing equity, diversity and inclusion in all that we do. We are an Affirmative Action/Equal Opportunity employer, and particularly encourage applications from members of historically underrepresented racial/ethnic groups, women, individuals with disabilities, veterans, LGBTQ community members, and others who demonstrate the ability to help us achieve our vision of a diverse and inclusive community.
