THE DEPARTMENT OF MEDICAL PATHOLOGY AND LABORATORY MEDICINE

ACADEMIC APERESIS/TRANSFUSION MEDICINE PHYSICIAN

Description: The University of California (UC), Davis, School of Medicine, department of Pathology seeks to hire a full-time clinical faculty member at the Assistant or Associate Professor level in the Clin X or HSCP series. This position is a clinician-educator and includes clinical service in transfusion medicine, and responsibilities in in quality improvement and laboratory management. Occasional cross-coverage for clinical service in other laboratory sections may be assigned, based on the successful candidate’s background and laboratory need. Collaborative participation in research that supports the department’s research mission is required. Teaching is required and may include clinical, didactic, multi-disciplinary conferences, and small group teaching of housestaff, medical students, clinical laboratory science students, and practicing physicians.

Requirements: MD, or MD/PhD and certified by the American Board of Pathology in clinical pathology or by a member board of the American Board of Medical Specialties in one of the following: anesthesiology, colon and rectal surgery, internal medicine, neurological surgery, obstetrics and gynecology, orthopaedic surgery, pediatrics, plastic surgery, or thoracic surgery. Additionally, the candidate must be board-certified, or -eligible, in Blood Banking/Transfusion Medicine, and qualified or eligible for the American Society of Clinical Pathology’s Qualification in Apheresis. Experience in teaching and clinical service is required in one or more of the following areas: Stem cell collections by apheresis (autologous and allogeneic), therapeutic apheresis, blood bank services, quality programs, and utilization management. The candidate must meet requirements for appointment as Assistant or Associate Professor in one of the University of California’s clinically intensive academic series. California professional license or eligibility for licensure in California is required. Additionally, the successful candidate must have the ability to maintain a high level of service, work cooperatively and collegially within a diverse environment, and should exhibit excellent interpersonal skills to build and maintain relationships with medical and technical staff, trainees, and others.

Preferred Requirements: Training or experience in molecular pathology, and/or medical informatics.

The UC Davis School of Medicine is part of the UC Davis Health System, which is also comprised of the UC Davis Medical Center, the UC Davis Children’s Hospital, the Betty Irene Moore School of Nursing and the UC Davis Medical Group, an 800-member physician practice network. UCDHS has more than 10,000 faculty and staff and an annual budget of $1.6 billion; UC Davis is an established leader in the use of telecommunications and information technology to advance health. U.S. News & World Report recently ranked the SOM among the top 50 medical schools in the nation.

For full consideration, applications must be received by 01/01/17; however, position will be open until filled, but no later than 06/30/17. Please forward the following: Cover Letter, Curriculum vitae, Statement of teaching and Statement of research background, & Statement of contributions to diversity; List of names and contact information for at least three references to: https://recruit.ucdavis.edu/apply/JPF01334.

UC Davis is a smoke- and tobacco-free campus effective January 1, 2014. Smoking, the use of smokeless tobacco products, and the use of unregulated nicotine products (e-cigarettes) will be strictly prohibited on any property owned or leased by UC Davis- indoors and outdoors, including parking lots, and residential space.
The University of California, Davis is an affirmative action/equal opportunity employer with a strong institutional commitment to the achievement of diversity among its faculty, staff, and students.